THE PULPIT TREASURY for April is promptly to hand. With this number closes the third year of this incomparable magazine. Its monthly visits have become a necessity to all its readers. bringing to them a very argosy of the very best things for pastors and Christian workers. This number gives the index to the third volume, and its admirable array of contributors, topics and texts is like a wonderful appetizing bill of fare, placed before a hungry guest. Every preacher and student should have this "Treasury."

The Lutheran Church is accorded the first place in this number, and has a fine portrait of Dr. Seiss of Philadelphia, one of his capital sermons, a beautiful view of his church and an excellent sketch of his life. Other sermons deserving a special mention are, Frailty Invested with Divinity by Rev. J. Wesley Johnson, A Memorial Tribute to Rev. Dr. Rice by Theodorick Pryor, D. D., and an Easter Service by Canon H. P. Liddon. Leading Thoughts of John Hall, T. L. Cuyler, Bishop Maclagan, Revs. C. H. Spurgeon, F. E. Clark, David Street, A. H. Moment and S. W. Adriance. In the Editorial department, the Resources of the Church, the Sabbath Rest, Search the Conscience, Aim at a Mark, "A Spiritual Boarding-house," are timely, needful. and pertinent topics treated with skill and vigor.

Yearly, $2.50. To Clergymen, $2.00. Single Copies, 25 cents.

A DAYTON PATTERNMAKER.

Dayton, O., possesses many points of attraction which interest and please the vicitor. The National Soldiers' Home, with its beautiful grounds and war-scarred veterans full of reminicence and of tales of valor; the Parthenon-shaped County Court House, the Cooper Academy, the Orphan Asylum, the Lunatic Asylum and the Market House are all public institutions well worth seeing, and of the private residences, many are extremely handsome and striking. Dayton owes its importance, however, very largely to its numerous and varied manufactures, which give employment to many intelligent mechanics. One of these large establishments is the Buckeye Brass and Iron Works, which is well known for the excellence of its products. Among its employees is John R. Rea, a patternmaker, whose home is at No. 127 Jones street. Mr. Rea speaks thus of his long standing trouble with neuralgia:

"That Athlophoros is the medicine for neuralgia and rheumatism. It rid me of my pain so quickly that I could scarcely realize that it was gone. But it was, and I must give Athlophoros the credit of doing what is claimed for it. I was an extreme sufferer for four years from neuralgia, the disease, of course, being worse at some times than at others. It was no common headache, but the kind of neuralgia that confined me to my house and many times to my bed. Last fall I had a very severe attack, which lasted about six weeks. I was entirely helpless and was not able to get out of the house at all. I did everything and used every remedy I had used before, but nothing gave me any relief.

"Hearing of Athlophoros, and of what a wonderful cure it had made in the case of Mr. Rockfield's daughter, I bought a bottle of it. I took four or five doses the first day and night and immediately began to improve. That night I had good sleep, something which I have not had for many nights previous. When I awoke the next morning my neuralgia was gone. From that day to this I have not had for many nights previous. When I awoke the next morning my neuralgia vas gone. From after the first day and night?"

"Yes; I kept on using it until the bottle was empty for fear that I had not taken enough to drive the disease away entirely. Then I bought another bottle to have on hand in case I should need it. I did not use it, however, but my wife did. She had been subject to sharp rheumatic pains in her shoulder, but she has never had any return of them since she used the Aible-turn of them since she used the Aible-turn of them since she used the Aibleturn of them since she used the Athlo-turn of them since she used the Athlophores,"

"The Athlophores cured you and your wife at a cost of only two dollars?"

"Yes; but it was not a question of dollars, but of how to get rid of the terrible sufferings and be able to attend to my work, from which I had been detained so long. I would have given a hundred dollars to any one who would have cured me as effectually as Athlophores did for a dollar. It is cheap atany price, for it does what is claimed for it—cures rheumatism and neuralgia. I have not lost a day's work since I used it."

In you cannot get Athlophoros of your drug-gist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per battle. We prefer that you buy it from your drugsist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed, Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall Street, New York.

John Blair, who murdered his wife and family in Kanses, and was lynched for it, was the son of the Rev. W. Downey Blair of Smyrna, Ky. On Sunday, while he was preaching, a boy walked into the church and handed him a letter. Mr. Blair stopped, broke the seal, read a few words, and then, with a groan, threw up his bands and fell to the floor. The letter had brought him the first news of his son's crime and death.
